Accidents Continue to Kill Soldiers

Gen. B.B. Bell, commander U.S. Army, Europe, sends the following message: Motor-vehicle accidents continue to be the leading cause of soldier deaths in Europe. Secondary roads in Europe are particularly dangerous and it is not uncommon to see hazardous passing techniques on these winding and hilly roads. Defensive driving, awareness and moderate speeds must be the watchwords.

The commitment of commanders and leaders is critical to help prevent accidents like this from happening. Leaders must take action to ensure drivers are aware of and prepared for the hazards of driving. Drivers must be familiar with the following defensive-driving techniques:

- Maintain a safe following distance. Use the 3-to-5 second method listed in Army Europe Pamphlet 190-34.
- Watch the speed. At increased speeds there is less time to react and it requires a greater distance to stop.
- Watch for vehicles approaching from side streets and on-ramps.
- Always allow a way out, someplace to go if it becomes necessary to swerve to avoid an accident.
- Be prepared to react to the actions of other drivers.

Operating a motor vehicle requires heightened awareness. All vehicle operators must learn to drive beyond their bumpers and all vehicle occupants are responsible for its safe operation. No loss of life is our goal. Be prepared to stay alive.

The Installation Access Control System is the Army in Europe's new automated personnel verification system being fielded to enhance force protection. When fully operational, IACS will network a central database to all installation access control offices, selected central processing facilities, MP stations and access control points for throughout Germany.

IACS allows a variety of access levels that can be combined with force protection levels to restrict access privileges and require intensified authentication as required. For instance, a person could be required to scan their ID card for access and then scan their fingerprint for authentication.

Registration is currently in progress in every Area Support Group and Base Support Battalion, as well as at Ramstein, Rhein Main and Spangdahlem air bases.

All U.S. identification cardholders and installation pass holders and applicants in U.S. Army, Europe, except those leaving before Sept. 1, must register in the new system. Those who fail to register will experience extreme delays when attempting to gain access to installations.

Register Mondays to Fridays, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Patch Barracks IACS Office,
